

Privatus

COMPLEMENTS

2023

Antonio Citterio

Description

Only a complementary piece in appearance, the Privatus windscreen responds to the need to define the spaces in large rooms of stately homes; for example, this can be used between reception and dining areas, or behind the headboard of the bed to outline the sleeping area. The panels are covered with a handmade fabric, composed of 50% raffia and 50% banana leaf, and fixed on a support for greater stability. The panel is thus slightly sound-absorbing and endowed with a tangible materiality without being intrusive. The profile is made of bronzed nickel and painted aluminium. It consists of three, four or eight panels.

Technical information

Peripheral profile
aluminium extrusions Internal frame
solid wood, plywood panel, polyurethane cover Ferrules
plastic material Cover woven raffia

Technical drawings

